Four circular lands will act as the planets on this map. They will stack on top of each other, leaving the northern regions of each exposed, and decreasing in radius with each lower planet. Each planet should have their own unique terrain, forests, and herdables. They should have a similar amount of stone and gold available, and relics can be scattered randomly. All planets should have a minimum elevation of 1. Shore fish and deep fish can be found in their associated water surrounding the lands.
